RE: Radio Geek Alert!

As you may or may not know, starting tomorrow, all kinds of radio programming geeks and general manglers will be descending on Los Angeles for the Radio & Records convention at the Century Plaza Hotel.

In addition to those aforementioned types, Luz, Egil, and myself will be away from the office Thursday and Friday for the same general purpose.

I will be checking in frequently with Rick so in the event emergency spiritual guidance is needed, let him know.

Also, considering the state of radio today in general, I think it's a safe assumption that a lot of these other visiting radio types are not exactly prone to -- shall we say -- original thinking. So, as they sit in their hotel rooms tuning around the dial, let's give them a helluva show, OK?
